Matt, we have contacted OPA separately.

Even though the politicals are not entitled to overtime, it is still worthwhile to get a list of names so that OES and OCFO have names we can input into People Plus for the tracking codes. Because they are interested in tracking all of the time, even secretaries or assistants who worked on travel would probably have to charge at least some time to the new code, so please keep that in mind.

If you just give us names – we can fill out the rest as needed down here.

Glen,

Thanks.

My assumption is that over offices within the Office of the Administrator – OPA, for example – are taking care of this for their folks. If so, I guess my focus would be on the Immediate Office. If so, again, the folks that have worked on it here are people like the Administrator, me, Arian – essentially people that are not entitled to overtime.

With that as the case, guidance on filling this out would be helpful.

Matt/Donna: With John out, I hope I am ok in bringing the following to your attention. I know as part of the response to Gold King, several Front office people are working on the issue, including the Administrator. We will need their names and as much of the data requested in the template attached that you can provide so that eligible people can work overtime and so all people working the issue use a site charge code on the pay card so we can track how much time is spent on the issue.

In addition, as highlighted under a separate email, People Plus will need to include a new charge code for people working on the response. I will send that to you shortly after this email, but folks here will need to set up the codes through People Plus, and your timekeeper will be made aware of the inclusion of these new codes as choices on the time cards.
